

just for you

A fair question to ask would be, "Who could use this website?" The answer comes in a four-fold description of the types of individuals for which this site has been specifically designed. Let's look at them one at a time.

The Unsaved Person

As Christians faithfully proclaim God's saving truth contained in the gospel, they will encounter a wide variety of response from those with whom they have shared. For the unsaved person who has heard God's truth and wishes to learn more of His Word, this site will take them through a very practical teaching and application process which the Holy Spirit can use to convict their heart of sin, and righteousness, and judgment (John 16:8).

The Christian

In the daily devotional life of a Christian, these studies can prove to be a helpful tool in drawing us closer to the Lord in our daily walk. As we spend time reading, studying, learning and applying the truth of the Word of God to our hearts each day we will become more like the One who gave His life for us. Seeking our Father's will and not our own, our life will become "Useful to the Master" as we grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ (2Timothy 2:21 and 2Peter 3:18).

The Discippler

The mature Christian is under a Biblical mandate to reproduce himself in the life of someone else, who will in turn have a similar impact upon others (2Timothy 2:2). These studies work very well in a one-on-one discipling relationship as both parties share their hearts and learn together the rich truths which will equip them for the "work of service, to the building up of the body of Christ" (Ephesians 4:12).

The Teacher

Across this land and even around the world, Christians of like precious faith meet in homes to study the Word of God. These studies can provide a strong foundation for the teachers of those home based groups. They have been written to accommodate the dialogue method of teaching, and yet have enough depth to bring out the rich truths of God's Word. For an exhaustive description of how these studies are designed to work, please visit our "How it Works" page.

If you are reading this page, please understand that this website was created "Just for You". It is our prayer that no matter where you find yourself today, you will discover the blessings of knowing Christ Jesus the Lord and living in obedience to His revealed Word.
